MEMBERSHIP IN THE INTERNET SOCIETY

for

Corporations, Educational Institutions, Libraries

and Other Interested Organizations

The Internet Society is a new, individual, international, professional membership organization, which provides a focus for evolution of the Internet technology, and promotes the use of the Internet for research, scholarly communication and collaboration.

The Internet Society has been organized under the auspices of the Corporation for National Research Initiatives (CNRI), EDUCOM and RARE. CNRI is a non-profit organization, incorporated in the District of Columbia, U.S.A., to conduct scientific and educational research (known under the U.S. Internal Revenue Code as a 501(c)(3) organization). The main offices of CNRI are located at 1895 Preston White Drive, Suite 100, Reston, Virginia, 22091, U.S.A. The Internet Society is, at present, being administered by CNRI, and CNRI's Federal Identification Number is 52-1447747.

Organizations may also join the Internet Society and contribute to its operation and evolution. By joining before 1993, organizations have an opportunity to become Founding Members, receiving special recognition in Society publications and functions. All organizational members receive discounts for selected Society functions and services, complimentary copies of Society publications and an opportunity to designate a representative to the Internet Society Advisory Council.

Provisions of Corporate and Institutional Membership

Founding Members

A Founding Member is any corporation or other organization which provides a specified level of financial support for the Society during 1992 and 1993 and maintains a continuing membership thereafter. Founding memberships may be obtained by for-profit corporation upon payment of $10,000 per year for 1992 and 1993, or payment of $20,000 in 1993. Non-profit research and educational organizations or government agencies may become Founding Members upon payment of $5,000 per year for 1992 and 1993 or payment of $10,000 in 1993. Founding Memberships will not be available after 1993.

Regular Members

Regular Membership in the Internet Society will be available to for-profit organizations starting in 1993 upon payment of $10,000 annually. Non-profit research and educational organizations and government agencies are eligible for regular membership on payment of $5,000 per year, beginning in 1993.

Other Provisions

Corporate and institutional members may designate a representative to the Advisory Council of the Internet Society, which will meet at least once a year, and which will be charged with advising the Board of Trustees on matters of special concern to corporate and institutional members, as well as on other issues of interest or concern to the Society.

Corporate and institutional members of the Society are not eligible to vote for the election of Trustees or on other matters of Society governance.

Special provisions are available for new, start-up organizations.
